OK's Oil Heir

Pete Neveckas (left), stepfather of Mrs. Barbara Sears, bride-to-be of Winthrop Rockefeller, shakes hands with a reporter at his farm in Lowell, Ind., where he expressed approval today of his stepdaughter's choice of a husband. "Those Rockefellers are all right," he said, "and she (Mrs. Sears) is good enough for any Rockefeller." Mrs. Sears spent the early years of her life on the farm (see left). Later, after a successful whirl at the stage, she married and divorced Hub socialite Richard Sears.

Granito Found Guilty In $110,000 Holdup

Samuel S. Granito, 38, Brooklyn, was found guilty of armed robbery in the $110,000 payroll holdup at the Sturtevant Blower plant in Hyde Park last Oct. 30 in a sealed verdict opened today by Judge Felix Forte in Suffolk Superior Court. Granito, seated in the prisoner's dock, turned ashy pale and slumped forward, then bowed his head.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle moved for immediate sentence. But Judge Forte declined and ordered a recess. Then he thanked the jurors, who have been locked up since the start of the trial a week ago, and dismissed them from further service.

As court recessed, Granito was led from the room. Obviously crestfallen, he said nothing but stared fixedly at his counsel, Atty. Herbert F. Callahan.

Returning from the recess, Judge Forte spoke for 15 minutes on Granito's record, which began at the age of 20 in "big league crime."

"During all that time, this man has handled guns," he said. "He is lucky he is not facing the electric chair. The day of long sentences is over except in cases where persons must be protected from themselves or society protected from them. I think this man needs protection from himself."

He informed Callahan he would grant him a week in which to file motion for a new trial and Doyle immediately demanded that Granito be held without bail during that time. Judge Forte granted this request and continued the case to Feb. 20.

Wallace Beery Named Dad Of Her Baby in Actress Suit

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Actor Wallace Beery was named defendant in a paternity suit today by film bit player Gloria Whitney, who asserted he is the father of her son born last Saturday.

Miss Whitney, suing under her legal name of Gloria Schumm, asked the courts to decree the 38-year-old film tough guy the father of Johan Richard Wallace Schumm, and be ordered to pay reasonable support.

Miss Whitney declared that she and Beery were intimate on or about May 1, 1947.

She described Beery as "a prominent motion picture character of great wealth and affluence, possessed of money and properties in excess of $1,000,000."

The actress also asks that Beery be ordered to pay the medical and hospital expenses in connection with the birth.

Miss Whitney's attorney said she and Beery had been friends for several years.

Beery has been divorced since 1939 from the former Mary Areta Colman, to whom he was wed for 14 years. His first wife was silent screen star Gloria Swanson, whom he wed in 1916. They were divorced two years later.

Beery, who was at the Hall of Records to appear in another case when the paternity suit was filed, told reporters:

"I have known Miss Whitney for 15 years. She has just been a casual acquaintance. There is absolutely no truth to the charge. I don't know why she is doing this."

In the other case, Beery appeared in superior court and gave his approval as a judge ordered final judgment in a compromise settlement involving a trust fund for Carol Ann Beery, 17, his adopted daughter.

Under the settlement, Beery's former wife, Mary Areta, will receive $50,000 from a $100,000 trust fund set up for Carol Ann at the time of the divorce.

Maynard Wife Kills Daughter, 10, Self

MAYNARD, Feb. 13—Leaving a note that she had been threatened with deportation to Canada and that her child was to be put in an orphan's home, Mrs. Marguerite Kapon, 48, shot her daughter, Peggy, 10, to death today and then killed herself.

Their bodies were found in the bedroom of their Boeske ave. home by the husband and father, John Boeske, a town water department employee.

Grain Slumps Again, Butter Takes Dive

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Grain prices showed tendencies to slide down again today near the final hour of trading after gaining a little strength earlier.

A violent downswing hit the wholesale butter market at the same time. The corner grocery store reported further and larger price reductions.

A rally that pushed wheat, corn and oats a few rungs up the price ladder from opening lows was short lived.

Corn broke as much as 5½ cents a bushel from the day's high in the Chicago pits near the final hour. It opened down the full limit, then rallied a few cents.

Wheat and oats joined corn in the late downswing, the former falling off 4½ cents from the day's best price and oats sliding 1½ cents.

The price of wholesale butter nose-dived 5 to 6½ cents at New York and as much as 5½ cents a pound at Chicago.

Retail outlets showed immediate reaction to the "butter drop." Grocery stores at the same time clipped meat prices considerably.

Dealers reported both retailers and shopper buying cautiously in anticipation of further reductions.

The girl had been shot in the chest as she lay in bed. Dr. N. John Columbo, medical examiner, said she died instantly. Her mother's body was found near-by on the floor. A 16-gauge shotgun lay alongside.

SON FINDS NOTE

The note explaining the tragedy was found in a bag in the cellar and was addressed to her son, Gordon, 17, a senior at Maynard High School. He said he remembered his mother had told him she would leave a note in the bag if she were not at home. The note read:

"Dear Gordon: This is a terrible thing for a mother to do. But (here there were names of several persons) have threatened me. They told me they would deport me to Canada and place Peggy in a home. Be a good boy, Gordon. Take care of yourself. Tell John to do the same. Mother."

John, 19, is the couple's eldest son. He is in the Navy medical corps attached to the Marines.

It was her son Gordon's shotgun that was the death weapon. The medical examiner said the double tragedy occurred sometime between 8 and 8:30 a. m. He ruled it was murder and suicide. Mrs. Kapon, police said, worked in a Hudson plastics factory until six weeks ago when ill health forced her to resign.

State troopers and Maynard police were called to the home by the husband. The bodies later were taken to the Fowler funeral parlor in Maynard.

Hub Man Caught in Trap As Co-op Holdup Suspect

A 47-year-old Boston man was caught today in a well-laid police trap at a Carver st., South End, hotel, and arrested as a armed robbery suspect in the daring $50,000 smoke-bomb holdup of the Harvard Co-operative Society Jan. 9. Investigators predicted his arrested would lead to quick and complete solution of the crime, with recovery of perhaps almost all the loot.

It was learned that police found an envelope "with a substantial amount of cash" on the suspect when he was arrested. He also was reported to have told detectives how the bandits escaped by switching cars in Central sq.

State, Boston and Cambridge police, under the joint leadership of State Police Lt. Daniel J. Murphy and Cambridge Lt. Insp. Joseph Breen, staged the hotel raid that landed the suspect in custody.

Detectives had been checking on the man wanted for several weeks. A tip that he had returned from a hurried out-of-town trip set the stage for combined police action.

Youngest Lifer Sent To Concord

The youngest murderer ever sentenced to life in Massachusetts court history, Ralph A. Duchacek, Jr., 13, Ashland, was transferred from State Prison to Concord Reformatory today because of his youth.

The boy, an honor student, was sentenced to life yesterday after he pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the "laundry bag" slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Swenson, 40, in her Union st., Ashland, home July 3. He spent the night in separate confinement in the prison's Cherry Hill section and was interviewed briefly by Deputy Warden John J. O'Brien this morning before being sent to the reformatory with two prison guards.

Rockefeller Tells How He Met, Wooed Bobo

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, FEB. 13, 1948

At the suggestion of Mr. William Randolph Hearst, Jack Stone, writer, and Tony Sarno, photographer, of the American Weekly were flown to Palm Beach to get the first interview with Winthrop Rockefeller on his romantic courtship with Mrs. Barbara Sears. The interview follows:

By JACK STONE

Copyright, 1948, by Chicago Herald. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited. Distributed by International News Service

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13.—Q—There's been a lot of speculation, Mr. Rockefeller, about the manner in which you first met the woman who within a few hours will be your bride. Would you care to tell us exactly how it took place? A—I first met Bobo (Winthrop's pet name for Mrs. Sears) at a restaurant in New York city. My brother Laurance and I were having dinner together and Liz Whitney (Mrs. Elizabeth Altemus Whitney) called and said:

"I have a perfectly charming girl that I'd like you to meet, Winthrop."

"Bring her along," I said.

"She brought Bobo and when I saw her I knew I was gone. All those years of bachelorhood faded."

"All the other girls I'd known faded, too. It was love at first sight."

"And remember all this happened on a blind date. Yes sir, it took a blind date to get me married."

Q—Mr. Rockefeller, what was the one quality in Mrs. Sears that impressed you most? A—She was unostentatiously charming, with a direct simplicity that no one could assume unless it sprang from the heart. It's Bobo's utter candor, her naturalness, that makes her the one girl in the world for me. And, as you know, she is gloriously independent. He added:

"When her husband went overseas and she was left alone she didn't sit down and pine. She hitched up her belt and did something to keep her mind occupied. She had gone to dramatic school and she took advantage of her training to learn parts in shows.

"I saw some of the cowboy pictures she played in and believe me she was good."

Q—How about the Cinderella angle, Mr. Rockefeller, that has been played up so much? A—Well, there has been all this talk of Bobo being a Third Ave. Cinderella. Bosh. In these days of housing shortage everyone would like to be a Third Ave. Cinderella. The apartment she and her former husband took there belonged originally to her ex-mother-in-law, Mrs. Sears, and they just moved in when she moved out. It is really a beautiful apartment.

And what's wrong with Third Ave. anyway?

ORDINARY MORTALS

Q—What about the family situation, Mr. Rockefeller? I mean you know... A—Family? There was not any question or uncomfortable feeling about her family. Bobo gave me the impression that I could take her for herself. Well, I did. She's a grand girl and I am afraid all this publicity has stymied her a bit. She's really not used to it, but everything's fine. We're going to be very happy. I'm glad I waited as long as I did before I took the step.

Q—You certainly stirred a horney's nest, Mr. Rockefeller. A—I suppose so. Somehow people get to thinking of the Rockefellers as unusual human beings. Actually we're not. Despite all the rumpus, Bobo and I are just two ordinary normal mortals who have fallen in love. We like the same things. We don't get in each other's hair. We're... well, we're just in love, darn it.

Q—You almost were not two people in love when that plane crashed the other day, Mr. Rockefeller.

(The observation referred to the Eastern Air Lines plane making an emergency landing at Bunnell, Fla., last Saturday. Rockefeller was a passenger on the plane and escaped injury.)

A—Oh, that (smiling). That's just another sample of the Rockefeller luck. I'll tell you something. I was heading for Palm Beach and Bobo that day and in my pocket was Bobo's square-cut diamond engagement ring. I never took my hand off it, all through the excitement.

Q—Mr. Rockefeller... A—I'm sorry, but this is my wedding day, you know, my first wedding day. I've got to run. There are the pictures and the reception and a million and one other things. Good-by. Wish me luck. But then maybe you don't have to. I guess the Rockefellers are pretty lucky after all.

R. I. Woman Attacked, Murdered

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 13.—An unclad woman tentatively identified as Mrs. Elizabeth Swanson Ledowski, 37, of Darling st., was criminally attacked and murdered here today, her unclad body found on the grounds of a truck terminal and bearing the wounds of a savage beating.

She was unconscious but still breathing when discovered at 6:50 a. m., but died five minutes later.

Several hours later police picked up two men, one intoxicated. The other, who said he had been drinking with the woman in a Randall sq. cafe early this morning, told officers he was taking her home about 1 a. m., when four youths attacked him, beat him off and kidnapped the woman.

Police said the other man would be questioned after he became sober, but both were being held.

The victim, whose husband's whereabouts police did not know, was found lying under a truck by Charles Barth, 25, Sherburne st., a driver reporting for work at the Culton Co.'s terminal in Charles st.

Her handbag and shoes were found with bloodstains on the floor of the cab's truck. Her wedding ring was on the seat. A trail of blood led to a shed 150 feet away, where other articles of clothing were discovered.

Medical Examiner John A. Piccozzi was performing an autopsy at the Rhode Island Hospital.

Bobo Tells of Her Love for Win

By ANNE CIUZINAS WENGEL

(Copyright, 1948, Chicago Herald-American)

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Eva (Bobo) Paul is sure she is "the happiest girl in the world," she told me today in the first telephone interview she has given a Chicago newspaper reporter about her marriage shortly after midnight tonight to Winthrop Rockefeller.

There was plenty of excitement in her voice when I reached her at the home of Winston Guest, the polo player, in Palm Beach, Fla., where the wedding will be solemnized.

We could talk on a friendly basis because Eva and I were schoolmates at Lowell, Ind., and lived on neighboring farms. We have been friends for 16 years at least.

When I asked her if she was getting a little jittery as the time of the wedding approached, she laughed and said:

"Yes, this is the first day I've felt excited about it. I've been taking it calmly up to now."

Eva told me of her first meeting with Mr. Rockefeller, saying: "It was at a party given by Liz Whitney. Liz introduced us and I guess we liked each other right away."

I asked Eva if her former husband, Richard Sears, Jr., the Boston society man, had sent her any word about her coming marriage and she said:

"Yes, I had a nice telegram. I'd read it to you but it's down stairs. He said he wished me every happiness, and I know he was sincere about it."

For her bridal dress Eva told me she is going to wear a plain

Nab Cambridge Man In $10,000 Theft

A Cambridge father of four children, bookkeeper in the office of a Boston costume jewelry firm, was arrested today charged with larceny of more than $10,000 in the past seven months by manipulating checks drawn against the concern.

The bookkeeper, George Roxborough, 45, of Sidney st., Cambridge, was arrested by Lt. George V. Augusta of the police bank squad after warrants charging him with larceny, forgery and uttering were issued by Judge Elijah Adlow in municipal court. Arraigned later before Judge Adlow, he waived examination and was ordered held in $5000 for the grand jury.

In a statement made to Atty. Schuyler Hollingsworth, counsel for a Boston bank, Roxborough was alleged to have admitted the check manipulations which took more than $10,000 from his firm between last June and Jan. 12.

He used some of the money to bet on horse races but, in his own words, he was "lucky and didn't lose."

His method was simple, as he explained it to police.

He would draw checks on his firm to pay bills which were owed. The amounts would be noted properly on the stubs.

But he would put these checks aside, holding them for a month or more. Meanwhile, he would draw checks for cash, charging them to promotion and use the money for his own purposes.

He said his employers, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Hag, might have discovered his operations sooner if they were more familiar with the operation of the business.

His downfall came, he said, when he was given several checks by his employer late one afternoon and told to put them in the mail. He did so, he said, but forgot to record them. A short time later, as a result, there was an overdraft in the firm's bank account and an investigation followed which disclosed his activities.

At Roxborough's home, his wife, Mrs. Mabel Roxborough, said she first learned he was in trouble last month when his employer called at the house during his absence in New York.

She said she knew her husband had played horse races. When he gave her money for the house, she assumed it was race track winnings since she knew the horses he played and checked the results. She said she never saw him carrying any large sums of money.

Young Couple Must Quit Cellar Home

Albert and Mary Frost, teenage newlyweds, must be ordered to move from their two-room cellar apartment in Heard st., Chelsea, by their landlord, Judge John W. McLeod of Chelsea court ruled today.

The decision was only one of the conditions laid down by Judge McLeod in the case involving Avidies Hajinlian, 60, also of Heard st., charged with maintaining an unlicensed lodging house, failing to furnish adequate heat and three violations of the city's building code.

Hajinlian was given until March 15 to license the Heard st. dwelling as a lodging house, to build proper fire exits and make other alterations.

Rep. Thomas to Expose Red Spies in Canal Zone

By DAVID SENTNER

Special Cable Dispatch to the Boston American

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Feb. 13—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said today he will make an official report to Congress on a Soviet spy ring which, he asserted, is spread like a net over the Caribbean area and the Panama Canal Zone.

In an exclusive interview at Margarita Hospital in Cristobal, on the eve of his departure by plane for Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, Thomas said:

"Among other things, my report will show a strong infiltration of Russian agents in Central America.

WORLD CROSS-ROAD

"As for the Isthmus of Panama, this is the cross-roads of the world and the Soviet Union is overlooking no bets here.

"I held conferences with Americans and Panamanians, representatives of the various intelligence agencies, army and navy officials, labor union leaders and ordinary residents of the zone.

"I doubt if anyone who ever came to Panama had better opportunities to hear as much as I have in the past few weeks. My illness has been a godsend in disguise.

"I will make a detailed report to the Un-American Activities Committee and to Congress, and also will make a confidential report to Defense Sec. James V. Forrestal."

STRICKEN ON SHIP

Thomas' probe of subversive activities here was conducted in bedside conferences. He was stricken with an acute attack of gastro-intestinal hemorrhage while aboard ship en route to the Canal Zone.

The committee chairman is expected to recommend reorganization and strengthening of the counter intelligence service to combat the machinations of Soviet agents in the Zone and in South America.

It was learned that Army Sec. Kenneth Royall during his current inspection of Canal Zone conditions has reached the same conclusion.

Boy, 2, Wedges Head Between Bars of Crib

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (AP)—Two-year-old Stephen Earle got himself in a tight squeeze while sleeping today—and it took two policemen to free him.

The youngster wedged his head between the bars of his crib. When his mother was awakened by the child's struggles, she found his face was turning blue. She rushed a phone call to police who bent back the bar. First aid measures revived the child.

Hub Hero Urges UMT; Tells of Need at Bulge

The slaughter of American soldiers in the Battle of the Bulge would not have occurred, Boston's Congressional Medal of Honor winner stated today, if the men had been fully trained.

The statement was made by South Boston's Charles A. McGilivray, Canadian-born war hero, in a plea for immediate establishment of Universal Military Training.

Aware that the UMT bill is now stalled in the House rules committee in Washington with no indication when it will be reported out for a vote on the House floor, McGilivray said:

"Congress should be told to act and act immediately. God forbid—but let's be ready, just in case."

He referred, he said, to the precarious world conditions now threatening to upset a fragile, unstable peace.

"Any right thinking American who recalls the Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944, in Belgium," said McGilivray, "would not hesitate for a moment in giving support to UMT for the youth of our nation."

"We all know what happened during that unforgettable battle. Thousands of our soldiers were needlessly slaughtered because they were not fully trained. Rookie, green soldiers, were thrown into that battle, many of them facing gunfire for the first time."

Lynn Parents Aid Teacher Seeking Maternity Leave

Lynn parents, indignant that Mrs. Euphemia Hall, Church st., teacher at the Cobbet elementary school, has been unable to obtain a leave of absence to bear a child due in May, have rushed to her defense with such effect she may win her plea.

A woman member of the school board, Mrs. Viola Faus, who had recommended Mrs. Hall resign, revealed today she had changed her mind. She said she would favor a leave of absence if City Solicitor Patrick J. Shanahan rules it would be legal.

Mrs. Faus said she had received scores of letters and telephone calls championing the married teacher's cause.

When the school board first considered the expectant mother's petition, the male members were all for it, but Mrs. Faus moved Mrs. Hall be asked to resign. The motion was seconded by Mrs. Bessie Buzzell, who said she believed "mothers should stay at home until their babies reach school age."

MRS. FAUS FOR TEACHER

The controversy was dumped in the lap of City Solicitor Shanahan while he was ill and he is not expected to return to work for a day or two.

Mrs. Faus, in reversing her stand, told the Parent-Teacher Ass'n at the Anderson school:

"I moved for Mrs. Hall's resignation only to bring the matter to a head. Somebody had to be the goat and I wanted the issue cleared up for once and for all. I believe some married teachers are extremely capable. After all, they should know more about children than unmarried ones."

Another development favorable to Mrs. Hall was a statement by School Supt. Ernest Stephens, who suggested to the teacher that she resign and apply for reinstatement when she was able.

He said:

"After all, if we are to have married teachers, why should they not have babies?"

School Committeeman Philip J. Sisk came up with a conjecture the city might be sued if Mrs. Hall were removed for the sole reason she was going to have a baby. He said he believed teachers under tenure could not be removed unless found guilty of serious charges.

WIFE OF VETERAN

Mrs. Hall is the attractive young wife of Raymond Hall, a veteran who served with the Army five years, mostly in the Pacific. He is now an employee of the General Electric Co. in Lynn.

The next regular meeting of the committee is scheduled for Feb. 23, but a special session may be called if the city solicitor rules on the case before then.

Rowen of Brighton Named to SEC

Paul R. Rowen, Bennett st., Brighton, was notified today of his nomination by President Truman as a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Since 1941 he has been New England administrator for SEC.

Rowen, who attended Georgetown University and Boston University has been a lawyer since 1925. He is a former Suffolk County assistant district attorney and in 1934 went to Washington as attorney for the National Recovery Administration. He later became legal consultant to the federal co-ordinator of transportation.

The Brighton resident is the son of the late Dr. Henry S. Rowen and in 1936, while serving in Washington as a member of the SEC legal staff, he married Mary Roche of Chicago.

Bandits Get $700 In Everett Store

Two men, one armed with a gun, who seemed to knock a man, the proprietor of an Everett drug store would leave to make a bank deposit, remained hidden in the store's two telephone booths today until he was ready to depart, then held him up and robbed him of $700 in his pocket and $25 in the cash register.

The robbers flashed the gun on Walter Sacks, owner of the store at Ferry and Shute sts., just as he opened his front door and was preparing to lock it behind him for the interval he would be gone. They forced him to the back room, ordered him to empty his pocket and then shoved him down the cellar stairs.

Blue Cross Sound, Hospital Chiefs Told

Bright future prospects for the Blue Cross despite the reorganization which was "forced by public desire to get something for nothing," were predicted today by Roger W. Hardy, acting executive director, at an emergency meeting of Massachusetts hospital administrators.

Hardy, addressing the session called at Hotel Statler by the Massachusetts Hospital Ass'n., declared that much misinformation about the status of the Blue Cross and its members had been circulated and emphasized that the membership still was being protected to the full extent of present contracts.

"The facts are," he said, "that a healthier, sounder Blue Cross is in prospect for practically one-half of the population of this Commonwealth."

Hardy said that after he had been asked a month ago to serve as executive director of the organization, actuarial advice was sought.

"The actuaries found cases where full maternity benefits were granted for the payment of a single month's premium of $3.25. They found cases where persons had joined, knowing they were sick with cancer, diabetes and heart trouble and needing immediate hospitalization. They were after something for nothing and perhaps never paid more than a month's premium. These abuses have been stopped."

He said actuarial studies now indicated possibility of payments to hospitals of more than the $7 daily for room and board proposed two weeks ago but pointed out that guarantees must be given from hospitals to permit the Blue Cross to continue.

MORE REVENUE NEEDED.
The Rev. Donald A. McGowan, archdiocesan director of Catholic Hospitals, declared the Blue Cross movement must be preserved. He said there was no need to fear it would collapse and that the vast majority of Massachusetts hospitals had no intention of refusing Blue Cross patients.

He pointed out that the public must be served, the hospitals must be adequately paid and the Blue Cross so managed that it maintains a healthy balance between its insured and the 152 participating hospitals.

Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, executive director of Beth Israel Hospital, declared hospitals had been caught in the spiral of inflationary increases in wages and costs of food and supplies. Increased

Fiance Who Fleeced Girl Must Repay

LAWRENCE, Feb. 13—Edward M. Smith, 20, of Whitman st., this city, who locked his 17-year-old Methuen sweetheart in a shed at her home, stole $1884 she and her brother had concealed, then went on a spending spree, will have to get a job and pay them back.

He pleaded not guilty in district court to larceny charges, was given suspended sentences totaling 18 months, then placed on probation for a year under compulsion to restore $938. This sum, in addition to the money found on him, will even the score for Barbara Allen, the girl he fleeced.

She testified against him today, saying she had once lent him $300 which he never returned. Her brother, Robert, 14, will get about half of the missing $938.

The money, most of a legacy left to Barbara and her brother by their mother last December, was used police say, to finance a gay spending spree which included happy indulgence in a collection of sports clothes, jewelry, a suitcase, radio and an automatic pistol.

These accessories for the well-stocked traveler were found in Smith's possession when he was picked up Wednesday night by authorities in Nashua.

Sergeant Tells of Assigning Accused Cop to Wagon Duty

Sgt. George F. Harnois, who was on desk duty at Station 4 on New Year's morning when three policemen are charged with making an unauthorized run in a patrol wagon, testified today at a public hearing before Comr. Thomas F. Sullivan.

He asserted that Patrolman Joseph W. Kiley, Jr., one of the accused trio, was assigned to duty as a wagon driver that morning. He testified that wagon run assignments are made by loudspeaker and that such orders frequently are passed along to the driver by men in the station. Kiley said that someone told him to make a run to Northampton and Washington sts.

Kiley, and two policemen off duty at the time, Thomas J.

Guilty Plea Before Hub Jury Spurned

In an unprecedented move in Suffolk Superior Court today, Atty. Edgar P. Benjamin, in the presence of a 14-man jury, requested Judge Vincent Brogna to accept a plea of guilty to second-degree murder from one of two defendants he was representing. The pair, William White, 30, of Pine st., and Edward J. White, 36, of Fay st., both South End, have been on trial during this week charged with first degree murder of Nicholas G. DiMartino, 35, of Washington st., Dedham, in the South End last Oct. 10.

When Benjamin made his request on behalf of William White, Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan objected strenuously and Judge Brogna, after a bench conference, dismissed the jury and summoned Dist. Atty. William J. Foley.

Both Foley and Sullivan declined a mistrial in the conference and insisted the case go ahead on a first-degree basis.

The jury was recalled, Benjamin rested his case and final arguments and the judge's charge went on this afternoon. The jury was expected to receive the case by nightfall.

Baby Born Without Mouth Near Normal After Surgery

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 13 (AP)—A tiny baby girl, born without an opening in her mouth, today had a chance to live normally. The Fayette County Medical Society, which described the case as the first in medical history, made public details of two operations performed by a dental surgeon.

The baby, weighing only four pounds, was born prematurely in a rural Smithfield, Pa., home Jan. 29. It's mouth was sealed. The lower and upper jaws were grown tightly together.

Feeding was done by a tube through the nostrils. X-ray examinations showed the lower jaw was much too small and had grown to the roof of the mouth. There were no joints by which it might swing.

In the first surgery, the upper and lower jaws were separated and the tongue freed. The lower jaw was manipulated into proper position. The second operation removed excess tissue and completely freed the jaw.

The little girl, who now weighs four pounds, five ounces, now is able to move her jaws, cry and nurse with a special nipple fashioned somewhat like a rubber medicine dropper.

BUDGET BLUES get you down—life is a struggle to make both ends meet?—Skip it, head for the only store of its kind in the world where dollars stretch to magical proportions. How, you ask? Rheumatic Pains?

take this sufferer's advice

Mr. J. K. Wilmington, Del. Advises every one suffering from pains of Rheumatism, Arthritis—Sciatica—to try RUMAL

He says, "God Bless You for RUMAL"

Mr. J. K. of Wilmington, Delaware, writes: "For years I have suffered with agonizing pains of Rheumatism. Nothing seemed to help much. Then a friend of mine suggested that I try a preparation called RUMAL. I was skeptical but I had nothing to lose so I sent for a jar. I tried it and am happy to say that I got relief from the very first application. It's a godsend to have RUMAL in the house for when these awful pains strike, I'm prepared."

I don't care how long I have been suffering the agonies of Rheumatism, arthritic pains, neuralgia, sciatic pains—I want you to try a remedy that is really good.

It must be good, for it has given me the blessed palliative relief to thousands of sufferers since 1919—over 28 years.

And the best part is that you don't risk one penny by trying RUMAL. You can't lose—only gain by doing it. RUMAL is a compound of powerful ingredients wisely known to the medical profession as fast pain relievers. You apply RUMAL as directed to the painful area. Soon you feel a glowing, soothing warmth as the pains disappear fast.

Send out this adv. now as a reminder to get a jar of RUMAL for $2.00 from the Nature Food Centers above. Send below. Mail orders sent postpaid. Get RUMAL now! Guaranteed! If after using 1 jar of RUMAL you don't feel that it has helped you, you get your money back.

Suing Youth Still Wants His 'Kidnaped' Bride of 14

BLACKSHEAR, Ga., Feb. 13 (AP).—"Sittie" Teston, the 14-year-old bride who was carried away 15 minutes after her wedding, was back home band, said he still wanted her.

Three days ago Doniver charged in annulment proceedings that "Sittie" and James Davis, 32, the man who carried her off, conspired to get him into a sham wedding to prolong an illicit love affair between the bride and Davis.

The annulment proceedings have not been served on the bride. The attorney who filed them, said he didn't know what action the court would take.

Doniver, who is 21, said today he didn't make the charges against "Sitties," but they are on file under his affidavit in the county superior court.

The bride and Doniver spent two hours together after her return last night. Doniver announced they intended to live together. But last night and today he was with his mother. The bride was with her mother.

Her husband, Doniver Teston, 18, greeted her:

"Hello, honey."

"Hello, Doniver," she answered, "I'm back."

"What you been doing for yourself?" he asked.

The bride, the former Mildred Aspinwall, had told her story to Sheriff L. L. Taylor. The sheriff is still looking for the man accused of carrying the girl on a tour of the State.

Sheriff Taylor said he was holding a warrant charging kidnaping against James Davis, 22, a construction worker. This, said the sheriff, is Sittie's story. Sittie being Mildred's nickname.

"Did Davis molest you any?" the sheriff asked.

"Twice," he quoted Mildred. "Friday night in Savannah and then later on somewhere else. We were in his car. He slapped me and made me. He had me scared stiff."

Sheriff Taylor said the girl declared:

"I haven't had my clothes off for a week, or my shoes, either."

In her story, said Sheriff Taylor, she referred to Davis as "Buddy."

Taylor related that the girl told him she tried to get away but was "afraid to move."

Mildred was quoted by the sheriff as saying:

"We spent every night in the car. That's why we were in those woods near Savannah. We never went to a tourist camp or hotel. We just stayed all night in Buddy's car."

Boettiger Denies Any Marital Rift

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (INS).

—Rumors that John Boettiger and his wife, the former Anna Roosevelt, had separated were branded absolutely untrue here today by Boettiger himself.

The reports followed in the wake of an announcement by the Boettigers that Boettiger had resigned as editor and publisher of the Phoenix, Ariz. Times and his wife had assumed full control

Miss Kellem's Firm to Ban Federal Tax Withholdings

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP)—Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Ct., manufacturer, said today her firm will stop withholding federal income taxes from employees. She offered to fight the issue out with the government in the courts.

"If High Tax Harry wants me to get that money for him," she said in an address prepared for a Los Angeles Rotary Club meeting, "then he must appoint me an agent for the Internal Revenue Department, he must pay me a salary for my work, and he must reimburse me for my expenses incurred in collecting that tax."

Miss Kellems is a slight, dynamic woman who lost out in a congressional Republican primary race in Connecticut to Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce in 1912. She is a leading woman electrical engineering manufacturer in the nation. Her Connecticut office said her firm, which manufactures cable grips, now employs about 30 persons.

"Paying tax is a duty, a responsibility and a privilege of citizenship," Miss Kellems said. "I do not exercise other duties, responsibilities and privileges of citizenship for my employees . . . and so, from this day, I am not collecting nor paying their income taxes for them."

"By this time (in Connecticut) our payroll has been distributed. The income tax of each individual has been deducted and withheld, but it is the last time the Kellems Company will perform this service for the government."

"I have more confidence in my employees than has their government. I believe that every person in my employ will pay his taxes as long as we have an income tax law, but if he does not, that is a matter between himself and his government, exactly as his religion is a matter between himself and his God."

Building Blown Up, Dial Phones O. K.

FLAT ROCK, Mich., Feb. 13 (AP)—A "miracle" left this community's costly dial telephone equipment standing practically undamaged today amid the rubble and dust of the splintered building that had housed it.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. structure was blown into smithereens yesterday by a gas explosion that rocked the village. But this morning normal telephone service was almost completely restored by repair crews.

For 300 yards around the building windows had been broken and foundations shaken. The building's roof sailed 50 feet in the air and crunched down on the roof of a house next door. The sides just disappeared.

Five Flat Rock High School students and a teacher were injured by the blast.

Lack of Heat
Made Baby Ill,
Fine Landlord

A young Lynn matron today accused her landlord of putting her 7-months-old son in the North Shore Babies Hospital with pneumonia because he failed to supply her apartment in Franklin st.
with sufficient heat.

The accusation was made by Mrs. Jeanne Jordan while she was being cross-examined in Lynn District Court by the landlord, Melchior Tripoli, 43, also of Franklin st., who acted as his own counsel.

Tripoli was charged with three counts of failing to provide adequate heat. He pleaded not guilty but was found guilty by Judge Ralph W. Reeve, who imposed a fine of $100 on each count.

Tripoli appealed.

Just before the fine was set,
the court warned the smiling
Tripoli:

"This is no joke and you won't think so before I'm through with you."

Four patrolmen testified that the temperature on Jan. 24 and 25 and Feb. 10 in the Jordan apartment was as low as 32 degrees and never higher than 58.

Suffolk Officer Asks National Uniformity in Divorce Laws

National uniformity of investigation in divorce suits was recommended today by Henry C. McKenna, chief probation officer of Suffolk Superior Court.

In a letter to Atty. Samuel G. Thorne of Boston, who is sponsoring divorce reform legislation in Massachusetts, the probation officer said a standard method of investigating divorce cases would benefit court procedure and insure a fair hearing for both parties.

Discussing the movement to make marriage and divorce laws uniform throughout the country, McKenna stated:

"Having in mind the multiplicity of views on the grounds for divorce as exhibited in the statutes of the several states, it would be of great benefit to reach a common understanding for the court procedure."

"If a husband has tried for a divorce in the home state, and been refused, or if he has gone deliberately to another jurisdiction, hoping for an easier method of divorce, these facts should be available for the consideration of the trial judge, who will pass upon the divorce libel."

"The same procedure followed by the probation officer of the criminal court on complaints for non-support, desertion and abandonment of wife and children would be effective, so that divorces would be granted or refused only after a full disclosure of all aspects of the domestic situation of the libellant and libellee."

"Thus, while it may not be possible to reach uniformity among the states on the grounds for divorce, there is every reason to plan for uniformity of investigation so that all the facts may be available for the court in determining the merits of a divorce libel."

Chinese Reds Admit Killing U. S. Marine

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Chinese Communist radio today announced one of five U. S. Marines captured by the Reds in north China died of wounds.

It charged the United States with active participation in China's civil war.

The broadcast said the five marines had advanced against a position of the Communists near a village north of Tsingtao Christmas Day. It said the U. S. Navy had been asked to apologize.

On previous occasions, U. S. military personnel taken into custody in Communist territory were released unharmed after a few days. This time, said the broadcast, the four surviving marines would be treated with clemency on condition the U. S. guarantees no recurrence.

Adm. Charles M. Cooke, Jr., commander of U. S. Navy forces in the Far East, said in Shanghai Monday he could not confirm a rumor that one marine had been killed.

JAP QUAKE REPORTED

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—A mild earthquake shock which might have originated in Japan was recorded early today by the Fordham University seismograph.

If You Need A LAXATIVE when you have a COLD—

It's important, when you have a cold, to keep your bowels open. Don't add to your troubles with harsh, upsetting laxatives. If you or your children need a laxative, take easy-acting Ex-Lax—the laxative that many doctors use in their practice.

Ex-Lax gets results gently. You can depend on Ex-Lax for thorough relief because it is biologically tested to assure effective action. Ex-Lax really tastes good—just like delicious chocolate! Always keep a box of Ex-Lax handy! Still only 10¢.

Cinderella

pink linen dress, with a little crocheting around the Peter Pan collar and around the sleeves. Her shoes will be of pink linen.

Her sister, Isabel Paul, who will be bridesmaid, will wear a blue and white dress and blue linen shoes. Lisa went out.

"I'm going to wear my hair down in plain style. I may have a little decoration in it—perhaps a coq feather or a gold ornament. I'm not sure.

"I'm going to carry white orchids. The something blue will be a ribbon on my bouquet probably.

"Isabel will carry pale pink roses."

There will be 600 guests at the wedding, she told me.

I asked Barbara if she hopes to have a family. She replied: "As many as I can."

Rockefeller called on her frequently while she was living in the Third Ave. walkup flat beside the elevated in New York. She went on:

"He called as often as he could. He was very busy with his work and his charities. When we went out it usually was to a small restaurant or to the theater. We didn't go to night clubs. I don't like them."

Barbara and Rockefeller have many tastes in common, she assured me. She said:

"Particularly sports. We like golf, swimming, riding and hunting. We have done a good deal of it and probably will do more after our marriage."

"I've been practicing up on my golf. Win is a good golfer and I want to keep up with him."

"Win" or "Darling" are her favorite names for Rockefeller, she said, but often she calls him "Winthrop."

BREAK WITH SEARS

He calls her "Bobo" or "Darling," she told me, and she added: "Nearly everybody calls me Bobo, you know."

After her break up with Richard Sears, Barbara looked for jobs as a fashion expert, but couldn't find anything that paid well enough to make it worth her while, when she became the bride of one of the country's wealthiest men. She may continue with her fashion specialties designing. She told me.

"I feel the fit. I do fashion work. It probably wouldn't be for sometime, though."

They probably will live in Rockefeller's apartment in New York, she said.

Barbara's engagement ring has a large diamond and two smaller ones. It is set in platinum. When she was telling me about it she began to laugh, and she explained:

"When he put it on my finger it was quite a surprise to me, but to top everything off, it was a quarter-size too small and we couldn't get it off."

TOOK RING OFF

"We soaped my finger but that didn't help. Then Win thought of using ice. So we chilled my finger through and it worked. We had it made larger before I tried it on again."

Barbara told me she hadn't any idea what the wedding gifts would be. She explained:

"It's too early for that."

There isn't any question about her feelings for Rockefeller, for she told me:

"I love him very much."

SmartSet Week-End Party

By BETTY ALDEN

SKIS, SKATES and gay snow suits will be piled into convertibles and station wagons next Friday when most of society's younger winter sports fans take off for a three-day Washington's Birthday week-end.

One large house party of Boston will be at White's End the attractive ski lodge Mr. Harold O. Whitney of Boston has rebuilt from his former summer home at Meredith Neck, N. H.

Joining the fun in this group will be the Misses Sally Delano, Emily Garritt, Betty Dixon, Jannette Bolton, Edith Pratt, Nancy Gould, Helen Pompos, Marian Prouty, Doris Gould, Messrs. Ed. Fisher, Louis Osborne, Ted Toohy, John Carr, Richard Stratton, Jim Henry, John Tillott and about a dozen more.

Mr. Whitney's place is on Lake Winnepeaukee with skating at the front door and skiing practically at the back door on nearby Mt. Belknap.

THE THEATER GUILD and American Theater Society is presenting one of the most enjoyable of George Bernard Shaw's comedies "You Never Can Tell." Monday evening at the Colonial Theater. This is sixth play in the current Theater Guild subscription series. Leo G. Carroll heads the line cast and the director is Fritz Adolph of England who staged the highly successful London production this winter.

Theater Guild has announced plans to attend include Mr. and Mrs. James N. Clark, Dr. and Mrs. William F. Cutler, Mrs. Samuel S. Tabor, Mrs. Hugu Montgomery, Mrs. Augustine B. Conant, Mrs. Elsie W. Bird, Mrs. Homer LeSourd, Miss So. Gay Fuller, Mrs. Charles O. Richardson, Mrs. G. Walter Audette, Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Tappan, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. John Otis Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Vallender, Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Allen and Mrs. Frank J. Ludwig.

ROUND AND ABOUT: Boston-

mans in New York for the Westminster Kennel Club dog show include Miss Sylvia Watten of Roversend, Dover, Mrs. William Parker of Beacon St. and Mrs. Warren Thayer of Maplehurst Farm, Lancaster, all guests at the Henry Hudson Hotel.

Boaters and bunting are top items on the shopping lists of two pretty young maidens who were formerly active in the debutante set here — Mrs. H. West Partridge (Eleanor Fingert) now of Augusta, Me., and Mrs. Benjamin M. Robinson (Anne Mitchell) of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Robert T. Monroe of Brookline, active in the Wellesley College 75th anniversary fund, is entertaining campaign leaders at a buffet luncheon on Monday. Speakers will be Mrs. James Munn of Cambridge and Mrs. Frank G. Allen of Boston. Wellesley alumnae is working hard to get the drive over the top by commencement week in June.

In town for a day of shopping Mrs. Justin W. Glass of Hartford and debutante Gioia Grass joined Mr. Grass for luncheon at the Ritz. Both ladies wear modish tailored suits under 100 for coats. Glimpsed Mrs. Charles I. Bacon chatting with friends in the steps of Trinity Church following a Lenten service.

TENN. FLOOD PERIL RISES
SHELBYVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 13 (AP)—Flood waters from swollen Duck river covered an estimated one-fourth of this city of 8000 today. The water was still rising.

Gen. Marshall Will Head 6th Annual Oratory Contest

State Sec. George C. Marshall, distinguished soldier-diplomat, has consented to serve as honorary chairman of the Hearst newspapers' sixth annual Oratory Contest.

The Secretary, who had made an inflexible personal decision to avoid such positions when he became the ranking member of President Truman's cabinet, departed from this stand when he learned that the immortal Benjamin Franklin would be the subject of orations in leading schools and colleges in the competition. He spent several days considering the invitation before he finally accepted the offer and wrote: "While I have adhered to a general rule to refrain from the acceptance of honorary chairmanships of programs of similar character, I have carefully considered the high educational and patriotic importance of this undertaking by the Hearst newspapers and accordingly accept with pleasure."

The contests will be limited to high schools and colleges in areas in which the Hearst newspapers are published. The prizes are generous. There will be two equal sets, one for high schools and one for colleges. The winner in each class will receive a $1000 savings bond. Runners-up will receive $100 bonds. Zone finalists will get $50 bonds. Additional prizes will be offered by participating newspapers. In Boston, the competition will be conducted by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

In Appeal

Ask Atom Power for Peace Use—Pope Pius XII converses with members of the Pontifical Academy of Science in the Hall of the Consistory in the Vatican. It was at this meeting of the scientific group that the Pope expressed hope that the atomic energy be turned "solely to works of peace."

11 Die in Blaze—A rapidly spreading fire snuffed out the lives of 11 members of one family in Utica, N. Y., today when a two-story frame building collapsed under the terrific onslaught of the flames. Fourteen others escaped in their nightclothes. The victims were trapped in the second floor where they were awaiting rescue when the walls suddenly caved in, causing the blaze to blaze fiercely.

A DANGEROUS DEPARTURE

THE LEGISLATIVE proposal known as the Nolen-Miles Bill, officially labelled Senate 264, is dangerous in the extreme, since it suggests a revolutionary departure from the high standards of humanity which have always distinguished Massachusetts as an eminently progressive Commonwealth.

From Colonial times our people preached and practiced kindness to animals not only because that was the decent and upright thing to do, but also because they knew from experience and observation that a calloused attitude toward animals almost invariably meant cruel treatment for human beings later on.

They said it happen in Germany, in Russia and many other countries, where important men of science persistently argued that daring and possibly fatal experiments on unwanted orphans and indigent older persons were justifiable, and even desirable, if the knowledge acquired in the experiments might benefit people in more fortunate financial circumstances.

Our people were determined that this kind of thinking would not be tolerated or encouraged in Massachusetts; and for that good reason, they actively and generously supported such world-famous organizations as the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Animal Rescue League of Boston.

But, at this late date, the Nolen-Miles Bill would turn the clocks of progress back at least a hundred years by putting the Commonwealth itself into the business of collecting dogs and cats for vivisection laboratories; and, as if that were not a sufficient outrage, would reduce both the Society and the League to the level of partners or connivers in the grim effort.

The Nolen-Miles Bill would permit any cat or dog—the valuable show specimen as well as the schoolboy's pet—to be taken from a pound after a scant six-day delay and used as a vivisection guinea pig.

THE DOG'S EYES COULD BE GOUGED OUT, HIS TAIL SLASHED OFF, HIS LEGS BROKEN, HIS INTERNAL ORGANS RIPPED FROM HIS BODY, HIS BLOOD STREAM INOCULATED WITH THE MOST AGONIZING SUBSTANCES; BUT, UNDER THE TERMS OF THE NOLEN-MILES BILL, THE OWNER WOULD HAVE NO REDRESS WHATEVER.

All men and women who wish to do their part to keep this recklessly retrogressive legislation from going onto the statute books should write at once to their State Senators and Representatives and particularly to the Joint Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs, which will conduct a public hearing on the bill on February 24 at the State House.

For the convenience of the many who can be relied upon to strive in this manner to preserve Massachusetts' humane standards, we have prepared this coupon which they may fill out and mail to the Legal Affairs Committee, State House, Boston:

I wish to be recorded against Senate Bill 264, known as the Nolen-Miles Bill, and I request you to vote against it.

GREAT EDITOR

IN THE TRANSFER of the Rev. John S. Sexton from The Pilot to St. Patrick's Church, Stoneham, the readers of the famous archdiocesan newspaper lose a great editor and the people of the neighboring community gain a parish priest whom they will surely love.

However, the promotion of the Rev. Francis P. Moran, S. T. L., to The Pilot editorship is gratifying. Educated in Rome, Father Moran is one of the outstanding scholars in the archdiocese, and his views will be widely read and respected.

O woman! woman! you are formed to bless,

The heart of restless man,
To chase his care,
And charm existence by your loveliness.
Your smile, a beam of light in-effable,
So sweet, so dear,
It wakes the heart from sorrow's darkest dream.
O lovely woman!
Your consummate worth is far above
All earthly praise,
You are the light of love!

—J. BIRD.

WHEN A NEW JERSEY couple recently celebrated their diamond wedding the only diamond present was a diamond ring the husband gave the wife. The wedding anniversary system should be rearranged. The diamond wedding should be the tenth anniversary. The average bride is then at a time in her life when she really has use for diamond jewelry. I haven't decided what the sixtieth anniversary should be changed to. Maybe it should be the easy-chair wedding. Among the revolutionary changes the Durling system of wedding anniversaries calls for is making the sixth anniversary the mink wedding at which time all the bride's friends and relatives will chip in and buy her a mink coat.

PASSING BY: David Niven, actor. And the new Mrs. Niven, a beautiful red-haired native of Sweden. She is the latest in the line of Swedish beauties. In our Horseshoe & Women files I find that while we have considerable data on the handling of Swedish blue-eyed brunettes there is nothing available on red-haired females of that nationality. Any practical information on the handling of Swedish strawberry blondes will be appreciated.

PLEASE NOTE: When a woman is in charge of a post-office should she be referred to as the postmaster or the postmistress? In any event, Mary Brown, handling the affairs of the Sequim, Wash., postoffice, signs herself postmaster. Mary, a native of County Cork, Ireland, recently took a trip to her old home town. She says in part: "I attended two wakes while in Ireland. To my dismay I found I had lost my ability to collogne, that is, to wail at a wake."

ASIDES: A veteran motorist says some years ago in Montana there was a highway sign reading: "You are now entering Silver Bow County. Speed limit 30 miles per hour. Tromp on it!" Recently I mentioned a California couple who had adopted triplets, and commented on the rarity of such an occurrence. Now the Rev. Thomas J. Cullane of St. Hele's Church, Georgetown, Tex., tells me a family in a Mexican mission of which he is pastor adopted triplets, three girls named Josefina, Ernestina and Hermina.

WHAT'S IN A NAME: A numismatologist stated in court he had named his daughter Antoinette because women so named "usually made a lot of money." At the time the only outstanding money maker named Antoinette I could think of was Antoinette Perry, play producer. My attention is called to the fact that the real name of Lily Pons, the opera star, is Josephine Antoinette Pons.

SIDELIGHTS: Remember when Kipling's poetry was so popular the country like a popular song. Any person unable to recite "Gunga Din," "Boots" or "They're Hanging Danny Deever in the Mornin'" could hardly expect to be accepted as a member of the young set. A returned traveler claims he while she was in a London shop a woman seeking to buy a dress informed the saleswoman her measurements were 72 inches! Sounds like a woman's head.

ASKING QUESTIONS from clients. Q—What kind of automobile was the first you rode in? A—Horse-drawn. Second, a Peapack. Third, a Stutz. Bearcat. Q—Ever hear of song titled "Mother's Sitting Knitting Little Mittens for the Navy"? A—Certainly. Jack Norworth wrote it and sang it in vaudeville during the World War I period. Q—Was your mother of Irish birth? A—My mother was born in New York city. So was her mother. My mother's father was born in Ireland.

IRONING: The ironing of an average family wash calls for lifting a five-pound iron 3500 times. And standing up while so doing. So states an expert on the ironing situation. That, of course, is with an old-fashioned iron. The very latest in ironing gadgetry permits the ironer to sit down and she has no iron lifting to do at all. Just presses a button and the iron automatically goes into action. Very simple. Even a child or a husband could operate it.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1943, by King Features Syndicate

HENRY WALLACE will not catch enough votes to make any difference, so my purpose today is not to head off a menace but to comment on the state of our journalism in Washington.

I know journalists there who wouldn't take a White Owl from a proud father, so pure in heart they are, who nevertheless would try to scuff silt and leaves over a corpse in the main lobby of the Mayflower to cover up a murder by anyone connected with the New Deal. Their integrity, their honor has been rotted by long association. Their initiative is dead.

These reporters fell for the likes of Henry Wallace years and years ago, or fell for F. D. R., and feel that they are stuck with Henry in a job of political full-line forcing.

SOME OF THEM were really sincere, like my old friend the late Ray Clapper, who just didn't have any sense left.

Ray thought Wallace was a great spiritual product, but Ray was a sad, sad man without any religion and, toward his end, which he seemed to anticipate and even to desire, he made a hysterical grab for a god in shoe-leather and caught this counterfeit.

At his memorial service they read not scripture but Mark Twain.

Ray had a beautiful personality, but he was more fit to run a little candy store near a public school and talk with children. His death in the war caught the old crowd downhearted, with sons away, death striking, sickness at home, and legs beginning to creak on the long, long errands in the corridors.

They rigged up a man-high pedestal and started one of those left-wing journalism awards in his name. That was unfair to him. Ray was neither a fool nor a Communist. It happened that his error in regard to Wallace came toward the end and started the Wallace myth.

Ray would have been better employed digging out the truth about Wallace, but I tell you they became apostles there.

I SAY IT IS a scandalous commentary on our great free journalism that, with a couple of thousand head in Washington, the whole corps never found and told the story of Henry Wallace's implication in the Roerich mess. Carlyle Bergeron was the only one who gave it a flick and he didn't even try for the tackle.

What good are they, anyway?

THIS WALLACE STORY reveals a terrible situation. Without a word from the Washington crowd, the people of the United States were permitted to vote into the Vice-Presidency, under a fading invalid, a candidate like Wallace.

If Wallace would answer whether he wrote those idiotic Guru letters to Roerich we would either know the worst, by admission, or be enabled to test the evidence. If he did, his election was a ghastly imposition.

But, whether he wrote them or not, we do know that he let Roerich's press agent talk him into importing this old tea-leaf reader to take an official expedition to Asia, ostensibly to pick up grass seed.

This press agent so imposed on the man who was soon to become Vice-President of the United States that Wallace thought he had to persuade the old faker to accept the mission.

Wallace was just going to invite him to make the trip, but this press agent said that would never do. So the press agent helped Wallace draw up the letter and Wallace found himself writing this:

"On behalf of the United States Department of Agriculture, I am asking you to lead and protect the botanical research group organized . . . to search for—bluh, bluh, bluh. Your unusual understanding of Oriental Asia, grounded out of your years of experience, will make for the greatest success of these studies. Appreciating your continuing co-operation in these matters, I am, etc."

We had just brought back one grass seed expedition sent out during the Hoover Presidency. And, anyway, we had fine American botanists available who would make their business, whereas as Roerich went around pinning medals on officials and handing out copies of a book of his.

THE GRASS SEED expedition cost the taxpayers $15,867.

Yet, last summer, the Department of Agriculture reported that no copy of any report could be found. Wallace just went enthusiastic about this Oriental and squandered $33,000 sending him on a trip.

And that whole distinguished corps of Washington journalists let Wallace become Vice-President five years after the blow-up without a word of warning to the people.

Scientists to Get New View of Mars

CHICAGO, Feb. 13 (AP)—Scientists at the University of Chicago, with a newly developed electronic device, are getting ready to take a look at Mars and see if there's any life on the neighboring planet.

The device, which can analyze matter millions of miles in space, will be hooked up to McDonald observatory's 82-inch reflecting telescope at Ft. Davis, Tex., next week when Mars comes within 63,000,000 miles of earth the closest until 1950.

The astronomers will try to find out if the green patches on Mars are identical with vegetation growing on earth and whether polar caps are composed of frozen moisture. If there is thriving plant life on Mars there is a possibility that animal life exists, although probably of a much different nature than that on earth.

New Penicillin Kills Pain In One-Shot Daily Injection

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A new type of one-shot-a-day penicillin with a built-in pain killer has been developed. Up to now, penicillin injections often have been either numerous or painful.

The new type is procaine penicillin, made by combining penicillin with procaine, a chemical water-soluble anesthetic.

The procaine besides killing the pain, also helps the penicillin to be taken up slowly by the blood.

The compound is mixed with oil, and injected, which further helps the slow-down process.

The common type of penicillin is simply dissolved in water. Injections with this type must be repeated every two to four hours because the drug, in water solution, is absorbed quickly by the blood and leaves the body rapidly.

Rockefeller

coned Winthrop Rockefeller into the family today, he suggested John D's grandson is a lucky fellow.

He is Pete Novakas, 54, and he expressed no surprise that Barbara Paul "Boho" Sears, 31, was about to enter the nation's financial and social stratosphere by saying "I do" with the 36-year-old grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller.

In fact, Pete, who is tending the 140-acre farm by himself, declared of the strikingly beautiful stage star.

"She is good enough for any Rockefeller that ever lived."

He seemed better acquainted with the fabulous John D. Rockefeller than with his prospective son-in-law. He commented:

"I would rather have met old John D. I read once that when he was a lad of 11 he could cut a cord of wood without breathing hard.

"There was a man for you. I wonder if this young Winthrop could do that?"

Pete refers to the petite bride-to-be as Eva.

Slowly working away on a chew of tobacco, Pete told reporters the girl he had raised since she was a child of 10 was entering matrimony for the second time without benefit of any gilt-edged finger beckoning the rural relatives to the swank Palm Beach nuptials.

He admitted:

"We didn't get no letter or announcement. But Eva must have been pretty busy. Of course, none of us would have gone to the wedding anyway.

"Not that we disapprove. We think those Rockefellers are all right. Eva's man can come down here any old time and be sure of a warm welcome."

Eva sent them cards at Christmas, her stepfather said. But she hadn't been home since a brief visit three years ago.

Pair in Fight Admit Holdups

Two 23-year-old Concord Reformatory parolees, who were captured after a free-for-all in the Dudley st. terminal following a holdup, confessed the banditry to police at the lineup today.

They also admitted staging another stickup 48 hours previously at a Washington st., Roxbury, variety store.

The pair, one released from Concord only a few days ago, were Garner P. Robinson, West Canton st., South End, and Charles Killen, Bartlett st., Roxbury. Robinson, just out of the reformatory, said they had met there and teamed up as soon as he got out.

They were captured through the heroism of three Cambridge youths and a naval veteran, who risked death in the face of a gun brandished by one of the parolees. The latter confessed in the lineup they had just held up a Washington st. grocery near the terminal taking $49.

One of the parolees was captured by police. The other, although he drew a gun, was overpowered in the terminal by Cambridge youths John Yarnall, 18, Homer Ave., Ralph Fennell, 15, 250 of Homer Ave., and Demetrius, Thetford. They were awarded by Port Foster Carlin, a Naval Hospital patient. Butler, 36, said the fugitive.

NEW! tiny diamonds of Lux!

They give you faster, richer suds
... make stockings last twice as long!

Here is news! Wonderful new diamonds of Lux! They're the result of wartime research but they couldn't be brought to you until new machinery was designed and built. Now they're ready!

There's nothing in the world just like these new diamonds. Look at them . . . so shimmering white, so sheer, so tiny! They look different from any other soap . . . they act different . . . they are different.

They're so much faster! See the little diamonds burst into suds at the touch of water.

What rich suds, too! Thick, abundant suds that last and last. Compare them with any other suds you've ever used. They're richer!

These new diamonds of Lux do more for you. They actually remove soil other types of suds can't. Leave things cleaner, fresher.

And they keep washables lovely so much longer! Your stockings—even sheer nylons—last twice as long. Hundreds of tests prove this. That's like getting an extra pair of nylons every time you buy a pair! So get your new Lux diamonds today. You can be sure that anything safe in water is safe in this new Lux.

RONKONKOMA, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—Postal employees, puzzled by the letters N. T. in place of the zone number on mail addressed to a schoolboy here, yielded to curiosity today and asked him about it.

The youngster said it was as simple as could be. He'd been answering advertisements, and in filling out the coupons with his mailing address he merely abbreviated "North Temperate" in the zone space.

TIME WAS WHEN A WAISTLINE was something you covered with a nondescript belt to show where it was ... or supposed to be ... a dividing line between bodice and skirt. There were other fashion times ... some 20 years ago ... when the waistline was completely lost . . . or virtually close to the neckline.

But today the waistline . . . that dividing line between upper and lower silhouette . . . must be as glorious as the Grand Canyon and just as colorful. It must be encased, entwined, encircled . . . wrapped, sashed, or cummerbunded . . . in a purposeful accentuation of the positive. And, accordingly, belts to make the magic of the magical circle all the more intriguing are creative works of art.

Ever since Christian Dior introduced the contour belt . . . and women realized their opportunity to emphasize the obvious . . . this type of belt and all the waistline beautifiers came into their own.

There have been adaptations of the Dior belt . . . and the newest imported from Paris is subtly contoured in patent or caif. Black patent belts are having a revival for spring. Many of the bolero outfits sport this kind of waistline cincher. For now with taut waists . . . wide-rising and nipping belts are the exclamation of the costume.

Included in the Croton collection are fish-twins, smart little dog-leash belts to combine in var-colored effects or team fun in one emphasis. A couple of glasses of water wrapped here or there, a key to the front, or a chunk of wood, a leather and looped waist-chain for a dog's vesting, a scintillating belt of fish scales, a fisher's girdle to wear outside for a drink in the woods, a wide, wavy, striped belt for a water-skiing outfit, a wide, striped and looped belt for a trout and salmon outfit, a wide, colorful, diamond patterned belt for a trout and salmon outfit.

Dear Shirley: I held off answering your query via the column until today, for starting today and continuing through March 8, two splendid cleaning creams go on sale reduced to almost their original price. Many of my friends use them much to the satisfaction of their skin appearance and themselves. They are $1 each, sale-priced from $1.75 each.

Safe-price, thrifty cream is a normal, unobtrusively taut in weather extremes, this cream is for you. For names of these two beauty - bargain - cleansing creams, phone the Beauty Dept. IN THESE DAYS of housing shortages and high prices everywhere, young people considering marriage are faced with some serious problems. So serious, in fact, though it doesn't pile up fast, it would seem to indicate that they have good sense and want to plan wisely. If this is so, then I see no reason why they should not carry out their plan for a June wedding.

"We have money in the bank," this girl said, but need more to start our marriage off. We don't intend to set up housekeeping, and my mother has offered us a little place until we get settled. I save money every day, but don't accumulate very fast.

"Tell me, is it up to the bride's family to give the reception? And just what expense does a bride have? Does she pay for the bridesmaids' flowers, the cake, and so on?" "Yes, she does," he has, as it appears they do, the foresight to save regularly, even by them.

But why should the brother-in-law do things on such a scale if their finances are limited? Why not have a simple wedding with no formal attendance or fancy reception, with just the two families there and perhaps a few intimate friends?

($\frac{21}{2}$ cups)

1 cup raw white rice
 1 cup salad oil
 1 No. 2 can tomatoes
 2-3 cup sliced stuffed olives
 1 sliced, peeled medium onion
 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. dried savory
 2 (tbsp) minced parsley
 1 cup boiling water
 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. grated process American cheddar cheese (1 cup)
 Wash rice; drain well. Combine with rest of ingredients.
 Turn into greased 2 qt. casserole. Cover; bake in moderate oven of 350 deg. F. for 30 min.

5 slices bacon
3 cups boiling water
1 lb. beef liver, sliced thin
Seasoned flour
2½ cups thinly sliced onions
1½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
¼ cup hot water

Fry the bacon until crisp in a skillet, then drain on paper toweling, leaving the bacon fat in the skillet. Pour the 3 cups boiling water over liver, drain and dry. Dredge with seasoned flour and saute in hot bacon fat until lightly browned on all sides. Lay in casserole. Cover with onion soup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and add the hot water. Cover and crisp bacon on top. Bake and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for 40 min. Makes 4 servings.

Heading for Trouble

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN: Will you please help me out in a pinch. I am having with my brother. We're grown, paid no more difference in our ages, and we go to many of the same dances and other parties. But because several girls have told him he's getting awfully stuck on himself, and he thinks he can go to any dance and not even ask the hostess to dance with him unless she's the "daddy" type. Mother and Dad agree with me, but he won't listen, but he'd like to read him your column. ROSEITA.

courtesy of your brother's is disgusting and exasperating one, and I hope your mother and father take steps quickly to save him from being listed as a cadidish character. One of the many peculiar advantages of being well managed dancing classes for young people is that the boys are never allowed to throw their weight around, even if they are veritable Adonises—they are drilled in the first dance-courtesy, always to dance with their hostess, and always to thank her, as they leave. Love

Sometimes . . . I've seen it happen . . . some "forgotten hostess," who isn't a particularly dreamy number but who has a brain and a well-directed tongue, will say something mighty penetrating to Mr. Brother about his manners. And a clever girl, she'll wait for the dramatic moment when his so-called adorners are within hearing distance! The echo of her will haunt him so he won't think he's so "purty" or smart.

Let's Eat

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

ON OUR TOUR of Bakers and Cooks Schools of the Quartermaster Corps during the war, the Chef and I always ate with the enlisted men. So we found out a good deal about their tastes and food prejudices.

At one post, where the men were lining up to enter the messhall for chow, we heard what sounded like the bleating of a flock of sheep. It started from the head of the line and went right through "Baa! Baa! Baa!" They were having lamb for dinner and were expressing disapproval.

A FINE MEAT

The Chef was perplexed. "Why don't they like lamb?" he asked. "It is a very fine and delicate meat!"

"It is probably the smell of the lamb fat," I said.

"But that's easily fixed. Just cut most of it off before cooking, and season the lamb well!" After dinner we had a talk with the mess-sergeant. It seemed that they had been plain roasting the lamb or sometimes boiling it. And as there was a considerable supply on hand, it had been served too often with insufficient variation.

VERSATILE MEAT

"But lamb is one of the most versatile meats," exclaimed the Chef. "It can be prepared in so many ways, and each will taste different. In some swanky restaurants you pay a high price for lamb kebabs which are simply tender pieces of lamb broiled over a spit, as they do in Arabia and some parts of southern Europe. Then there is the barbecued lamb they have in Latin America; the exotic lamb curry of India; the Italian roast lamb and spaghetti; even the Irish lamb stew, is a dish de luxe when it is properly made."

"And in Scandinavia they have a very good dish of cabbage leaves stuffed with lamb," I suggested. "Let's get some plain chopped lamb and have that for dinner. It's a good dish to help beat the food bill!"

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Grape Fruit Cocktail
Stuffed Cabbage Rolls
Tomato Sauce
Hollywood Beets
Parboiled Potatoes
Dark Bread
Butter or Margarine
Spiced Pumpkin Custard
Coffee or Tea Milk (children)
All Measurements are Level
Recipes Serve Four

STUFFED CABBAGE ROLLS

Pull off the wilted outside leaves from a head of cabbage. Then cut off 12 large outer leaves. Rinse in salt water and boil 3 min. Do not break these leaves, as they are to be stuffed and rolled.

Next combine 1 lb. chopped lamb, (or lean beef), $\frac{1}{4}$ c. fine soft bread crumbs, 1 egg or the equivalent of reconstituted dried egg, 1 medium-sized onion, and $\frac{1}{2}$ c. left-over gravy, tomato sauce, or soured cream. Mix in $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt and $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. pepper. Place a heaping tbsp. of this mixture in the center of each cabbage leaf. Roll up and fasten with tooth picks.

Place the cabbage rolls, fold side down in a heavy sauce pan; pour in 1 c. water mixed with 2 tbsp. tomato paste. Cover closely and simmer 45 min. If necessary add a little more water. Serve with a sauce made by adding to the liquid in the pan 1 can tomato sauce.

HOLLYWOOD BEETS

Take 3 c. sliced cooked or canned beets, add $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. butter or margarine, $\frac{1}{2}$ c. orange juice, 1 tbsp. lemon juice and a little salt and pepper. Cover and heat slowly. If you buy beets with fresh leaves, save and cook them, for they are "tops" in Vitamin A.

Beet Greens: Cut off and thoroughly wash the beet tops. Cut the stems in half-inch lengths; shred the leaves. Melt $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp.

butter or margarine in a heavy sauce pan; add $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. minced onion; saute 3 min. Add the beet stems and leaves. Stir into the butter, cover closely and slow cook until tender without adding any water, about 20 min. Serve in a vegetable dish, with the sliced cooked beets on top. Garnish with small lemon wedges.

SPICED PUMPKIN CUSTARD

Combine 2 c. canned sliced pumpkin, 2 c. milk, 2 tsp. melted butter or margarine, 1 c. fine stale bread crumbs, 1 tsp. cinnamon, $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. ground clove and $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. almond extract if you have it. Beat and add the yolks of 2 eggs, $\frac{1}{2}$ c. brown sugar and $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt. Beat the egg whites stiff and fold in.

Transfer to a buttered 3 qt. baking dish. Top with coarse bread crumbs mixed with a little melted butter; dust with 1 tsp. brown sugar. Bake in a slow oven, 325 deg. to 350 deg. F. until firm in the center and brown on top, from 45 min. to an hour. Serve warm with maple syrup or foamy fruit sauce, or cold with sweetened whipped cream or evaporated milk.

Foamy Fruit Sauce: Combine $\frac{1}{4}$ c. sugar, $\frac{1}{4}$ c. water and $\frac{1}{2}$ c. any kind of jam. Boil together 5 min. Add 1 tbsp. lemon juice. Beat 1 egg white stiff. Pour into the boiling liquid, beating constantly. Serve at once.

TRICK OF THE CHEF

For fine flavor in the tomato sauce, add a little oregano as is used in the southwest part of this country and in Mexico.

Hostess' Favorite Recipe

By MARTHA LEE

MRS. HARRY W. BESSE, wife of the president of the Boston Stock Exchange, told us that she had never had occasion to cook much until, during the war, she and her husband bought a farm in New Hampshire. Since many foods, particularly meats, were not too readily available at that time, especially in the country, she was often compelled to resort to her imagination in preparing a meal. This planked hash she claims as her very own recipe. It's not only very good to taste, but she says it looks quite "dresy," and has found a place on their regular menu.

PLANKED HASH

Grind one canned meat loaf and add an equal amount of mashed potato. Mix with two well beaten egg whites. Season to taste with onion, or a dash of Worcestershire sauce.

Heap mixture in a mound on a small greased steak plank. Bake about 15 minutes, or until heated thoroughly and browned, in a moderate oven. Garnish with string beans or any vegetable of your choice, and serve hot from the plank.

Dresses Draped Into New Silhouettes

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THE IMPORTANT draping that has made such big fashion news this year is seen at its best in the short, formal dress that, with a mink coat and one of the lovely new hats, makes a triumphant triumvirate for dinner and the theater.

These dresses are draped into new silhouettes. This means that not only the body of the dress, but sleeves, too, must be handled with a new technique. Frequently the sleeves are cut in one with the bodice. This makes a unit of the entire top of the dress and gives the designer more scope for his fancy.

Large, who designed the dress sketched today, gave the sleeves an exaggerated dolman cut. Then with lots of surface to work on, he shirred and drapes them along their entire length. The bodice, in turn, is draped to a set-in midriff which has been diamond-stitched in fine silk braid. The top of the bodice forms a straight line from shoulder to shoulder. The skirt is shirred, but the dress fabric (beige faille silk) is so fine that it hangs in slim lines.

FRESH LOOK of spring is the pretty and pink look . . . which creates a new, utterly disarming and more feminine you that soon will be reflected in frilly blouses, graceful, long skirts, AND a pink-pretty lipstick with color vibrancy and flower-petal face powder and foundation to match. So don't be sad . . . be spring-like in your complexion communication!

Here's New Pink Lipstick, Makeup for Spring Styles

IF YOU ARE GOING to look pink, look pretty pink. Look pink and look pretty . . . not namby, pamby, washed-out and faded. It is amazing how this lighter makeup sequence has taken on . . . almost as enthusiastically as the short hair cut vogue. Or is it because of the transition of spring season . . . when it is only natural to look ahead to brighter, lighter, gayer days?

However, this season . . . there are no two ways about it. The look is light and bright, but it is also a pretty pink light-brightness. Of course, there are many shades of pink . . . but the pink beauty-sponsored for spring is a pink with a punch.

Having gone through the preliminary testing laboratory of trial and error methods in eliminating this and that pink . . . one beauty house has finally decided on the shade they think is THE hue . . . and between you and me, the color is good. First of all . . . you don't have to be afraid that it won't harmonize with the forecast for spring. The Jordan Company's candy colors of pale, pale green, heavenly blue, mauve violet and pink are all matched and counter-matched to the pink with real, freshness sponsored by this beauty company.

Now that you've discarded the sooty, tight skirt and the broad, mannish shoulders . . . of must come the bold dash of . . . but the pink beauty-sponsored for spring is a pink with a punch.

In addition to the lipstick, face powder, and foundation cream or lotion, tinted to look right with this new look of pink prettiness, are available. Get ready for the complexion of a Dresden shepherdess . . . and don't look now . . . but in a few weeks . . . that's YOU! . . . R.M.

For the name of this new pretty pink lipstick and make-up series, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 2-4000, any day except Sunday, or write to Ruth Muggleber, care of the Boston American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Time to Check Up On Manners

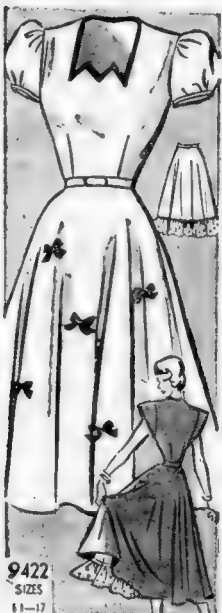

Now that you've stepped forth for more than a month in the new year, how about that check-up you promised yourself you'd give to your manners? Are you still vaguely thinking that sometime you'll really do something about improving your manners, polishing them so that you will be mighty proud of their performance?

Today is a good time to resolve to achieve pleasant, considerate manners . . . "to do and say the kindest thing in the kindest way."

Harvard's Dr. Hooton Urges Birth Control for World Peace

PALO ALTO, Cal., Feb. 13 (AP)—Now there's a Hooton peace plan. Dr. Earnest A. Hooton, Harvard anthropologist, proposed to a Stanford University audience last night.

Universal birth control "to prevent the incompetent from reproducing their kind."

Weeding of social misfits from the educational system.

Efforts to raise the "low I. Q." of governments.

Dr. Hooton saw danger to democracy in the idea that poverty-stricken, inefficient people have an innate right to be "supported in idleness from the public purse."

Now, he said, the fate of humanity is in the hands of governments "which almost always exhibit behavior, resultant of the low average intelligence of their citizens."

KATIE KILFEATHER

(A Complete Short Story)
By HOLLIS STARNES

HER DAY'S work done at the San Pedro Hotel, chambermaid Katie Kilfeather changed her apple-green uniform for rusty black street clothes to visit a sick guest in the hospital.

Katie's guests at the shabby old Broadway hotel were showfolks—oh, not important showfolks, by stage or screen Who's Who, or Howlingers—but the gray-haired maid wouldn't exchange them for all the stars of Broadway and Hollywood combined. That day, after passing the bat among them, she'd collected enough to pay the sick girl's hospital bill.

"Some valentine!" she exulted, it being the Saint's day. "All I'm short now is a bit o' cash extra, for tips an' what-nots she needs. If I can just collect some gr-and-some!"

On Valentine's day in the lush years, she thought wistfully, it would be easy. Then her chorus lovelies got so many flowers they gave her the overflow, which she lost no time trading in for cash at Gus', a hole-in-the-wall flower shop around the corner.

Principal Characters
KATIE, the chambermaid, who snarls up the St. Valentine's date of CHERIE and BUCK. How can she fix things, by all the saints?

"Yes, that's where Mr. Oliver stays when he's on from Detroit. You off to see Flo? Give her my best. Wish I could send her some of my flowers, but—"

"Ye can't," said 'Cherie in halves, huh?"

It was mean to covet the child's flowers, she censured herself on the way to the service elevator. Cherie was wild over this new beau, and it seemed to be ritual. As the elevator arrived, she saw the girl racing toward her, box outstretched. "Katie, wait!"

"But Cherie, ye want your own flowers, an'—"

"Don't tempt me!" The girl thrust them into her arms and fled.

With a flourish she set the box down on Gus' counter. "Now here's somethin' sumptuous an' elegant!"

"Bound to be, with that name on the box," the man said. "Say, what's the idea of this 'Cherry'?"

"French for Happy Valentine," Katie said glibly.

"I bet they soaked some bird plenty for that bit of French—thirty, maybe forty bucks. I'll be lucky if I get a measly five."

"Five dollars!" cried Katie as if it were less than a thin dime.

"Sure, if that's all 'tis worth I'll be on my way an' give it to one o' me girls sick in hospital. I was just thinkin' a bit o' cash would be more good to her but—" she picked up the box.

"I tell you," Gus stopped her, "I'll make a deal with you. Here's a fifty-fifty split on the five. If some sucker comes in and I can get more, stop by tomorrow. I'll pay you the balance."

"'Tis a deal!" she grabbed the two fifty and left.

After her hospital visit, she trudged up five flights to the tiny cold-water flat she shared with her sister. In the hall she could hear the telephone ringing.

"Whoever that is," she panted as she let herself in, "will get short shrift from me!"

She grunted a brusque hello.

and heard Cherry's excited voice.

"Katie, I've been trying and trying to get you! I'm back-stage. I must have a corage. You give Flo my flowers?"

She felt far too fagged and famished now to explain about the trade with Gus.

"I'll tell you all about it in the mornin'!"

"But I want to know now," the girl persisted. "I'm in a frightful fix with Buck."

"Fix" she gasped.

"It's been a nightmare. When we left Sardi's for the boss' date, Buck said I must have a corage. We passed by Gus' and—"

Katie felt her knees sagging under her. "An' what?"

"Right up in the show window was 'Cherie'!"

Katie swallowed hard. "Did Buck see it?"

"Of course he saw it and hit the ceiling. Said his florist made it up as an exclusive design and here was a duplicate. Then Gus came running out and tried to sell it to us."

"How much?" the woman asked practically.

"What does it matter? Ten dollars." Then Buck saw his own florist's name on the box. He wanted to blow them up but they were closed. And that terrible fix kept on babbling.

"Blabbin' what?" Katie choked.

"How he bought the box in good faith from someone with a hard luck story about a sick girl in the hospital!"

"What next?" Katie asked in a still small voice.

"Buck gave me a look I'll never forget to my dying day. He didn't say a word, and I couldn't. After that my mind went blank."

"Blank!" Katie cried. "What about dinner at the Waldorf?"

"It was like a funeral!" wailed the girl. "I had such a guilty conscience, every time Buck looked at me I thought I'd pass out. Katie, what happened?"

"I knew Flo needed cash more'n posies," said the woman stoutly, "so I traded in the flowers for two fifty."

"Two fifty?" the girl broke into sobs. "For that miserable few pennies you lost me the only man I could ever love! Now I'll never see him again, never. I want to die! They're calling half-hour—how can I play a show with my heart breaking?"

Katie put on a stern voice. "Ain't I taught ye a trouper's first lesson? No matter what happens—the show must go on!"

She hung up, started to sag, then braced herself. "Yes, the show must go on—an' God help me, I got a part to play in it!"

There seemed to be dozens of Olivers registered at the swank Waldorf Astoria, but at last from a telephone in the lobby she located the one from 1A's room.

"Is Buck there?" she asked. If she'd ever heard his other name she'd forgotten it.

"Buck?" said the man. "This is C. G. Oliver speaking."

"Oh, Mr. Oliver, 'tis the young man with ye I'm wantin'—he works for ye." Had Buck left? Her heart was pounding.

A crisp young voice came on the wire. "Who is this?"

"Well, ye don't know me," she faltered, "but I got to see ye, important, 'bout somethin' concernin' Miss Pyne—Miss Cherry Pyne."

He said almost civilly: "I can't see you now, I'm in a business conference."

"I'LL SEE HER AFTER THE SHOW"

"Well, Cherry's in a Broadway show," she countered. "But now she's goin' to sing and dance, with her mind all upset about those flowers?"

"Flowers?" the voice was cold. "What happened was all my doin's, an' I'm here to give the facts."

"But I can't hear them now, I'm—"

"Ye got to hear!" she cried boldly. "Here's the story in a nutshell. I was on my way to see one o' me girls sick in hospital, when Cherry came in with her flowers. I'm Katie, maid on her floor. I hinted for 'em, an' poor young one handed 'em over. Sure, she's like that, said give ye the shirt off her back."

"But I don't—"

"But, thinks I," Katie plunged right ahead, "that sick girl needs cash more'n posies. So I traded 'em in at Gus'."

Cherry didn't know she just called me up at home, an' I came straight here."

"Did she tell you to come?"

"Not on your life," she declared, "an' don't ye ever tell her I come, either! But if ye're the man I know ye for, ye'll—"

"I will," she swore and suddenly she was gone, and the only thing left was the sound of her heels.

THE END

You'll enjoy Bertha Ruck's story, "Valentine," in tomorrow's Boston American

Gus resold Park ave. goods at Eighth ave. prices.

"Put these days the men don't send flowers!" she lamented. "They take their dates for a meal or the movies."

So her eyes fairly popped as she rushed down the hall when she met Cherie Pyne carrying a florist's box. "Cherry Pie!" she cried, this being her nickname for the luscious-haired beauty.

"What's that ye got?"

"Flowers! Buck sent me for Valentine's—I'm going to put them in water." Half the lovely teen-ager's stage makeup was still on her face, after the matinee down the street. "Want to see?"

She lifted the lid and the maid peered at a heart-shaped base of tiny white rosebuds, with red buds bordering, and "CHERIE" lettered in baby red buds across the face.

"Cute idea," said the woman, "but they didn't spell your name right."

"But that's the most precious part of the whole idea!" the girl cried. "It's not meant to be my name. 'Cherie' is French for dear, or as we might say, darling or honey—only somehow 'Cherie' means more, it's not so common."

DINNER AT THE WALDORF

An idea came suddenly leaping and dancing into Katie's head. "Ye mean, 'Cherie' could mean any girl?"

"Sure, but this one means me." She hugged the box. "I must fly. Soon as I'm dressed for the street, I'm dashing for Sardi's to meet Buck. Then his boss is taking us to dinner at the Waldorf, before they have a business conference."

"Dinner at the Waldorf, huh?"

'Voice of Turtle' Sets Pleasant Pace

"The Voice of the Turtle" which belted lustily on Broadway for five years, is less loud on the Metropolitan screen, where it has just arrived.

This Hollywood adaptation of the enormously successful stage offering is naturally abridged, but with a bright young cast including the dependable Eve Arden, it moves along at a pleasant pace. And the audience loves every minute of it.

Ronald Reagan is the soldier in New York on a brief leave who is eager for love, but just a wee bit wary because it develops he was stung once in Paris.

Eleanor Parker, a comparatively new-comer to Hollywood, is the girl. She's in New York also eager for love, but just a wee bit wary because she was stung once, too.

Unlike their stage counterparts they behave themselves admirably well under some downright inviting circumstances, which they manage to make humorous. Although they are not permitted to whip up the froth of excitement, they do contrive to give their relationship that "cute" approach, at which Hollywood is so adept.

Miss Arden is delightfully flip whenever she makes an appearance. She wears her gown with such finesse that it seems she's dressed just for you.

Wayne Morris, absent from the screen for some time, has put on a lot of weight.

The companion piece is "The Challenge," with Tommy Conway and his very nice speaking voice.

Boston's Screen, Stage Fare Shines

The RKO-Boston is again giving its feature picture a break, "Personal Column," with Lucille Ball and George Sanders starred, is a psychological thriller that rates top billing.

But the new stage show is right up there too. The Three Suns, headliners, got an ovation at yesterday's opening show, sustaining the great popularity these three instrumentalists worked up for themselves in New York.

With an electric organ, guitar and accordion—not to forget the gratuitous vocals—a surprising amount of music is made. The boys are Monty and Al Nevins and Artie Dunn, who make like a whole orchestra when they are so disposed. And to hear them do such things as "Hindustan," "All the Things You Are," "Hawaiian War Chant," and "Twilight Time," is to have a good time. The show was stopped cold yesterday at this point.

Sue Ryan, comedienne from the musical comedy stage, is another favorite this week. She has all special material, meaning her own songs, to which she attaches some exceedingly bright comedy. Don Cummings, his sister and his twirling rope, are a good standard comedy act, which is much appreciated out front.

The Ames Brothers are a quartet of singers coming along marvelously on phonograph records. Now on the K-B stage, they are heard in some of their most popular numbers.

Celts Lose Shirt In 2-Year Span; Ice Follies Ahoy!

By JACK CONWAY

PROFESSIONAL BASKETBALL has proved a financial bust in Boston. The Celtics already have lost $150,000 this season. Added to the $100,000 loss suffered during the opening season of professional basketball in Boston, the Garden has already dropped $250,000 in its effort to promote professional basketball here.

New York is one of the few professional basketball teams that is not operating in the red. New York was the first Eastern city to put over basketball on a major scale, and it was better prepared than Boston to accept the professional game.

Professional basketball was introduced into Boston at a time when the college sport was in its infancy in this city. College basketball was a losing proposition in the Garden until Holy Cross came to the front in sensational style. This is why the recent trouble over tickets between the Holy Cross athletic department and the Garden management was so serious. Without Holy Cross playing in the Garden, college basketball might join the Celtics in the red ink column.

President Walter Brown of the Garden, now in Europe, is committed to professional basketball. He feels that with time and the expenditure of the necessary money the sport will click here.

Professional basketball is experiencing the same trouble that professional football has encountered here. Ted Collins has lost between $100,000 and $200,000 a year with the Yanks. Collins has seen the professional game click in New York, Chicago, Green Bay and in other major cities, and he is confident that if he is able to produce a first class team here he will eventually win back the fortune he has already lost promoting professional football.

Red Sox and Braves had stormy days in Boston over the years, but once a winner was produced the picture quickly changed. Both clubs made big profits during the past two years.

Ice Follies' Advance Sale Already Over $200,000

THERE IS STILL MONEY around when the proper sports attraction is offered. The advance sale for the Ice Follies, which opens at the Garden on Feb. 17, has passed the $200,000 mark. It will do a much bigger business than the Ice Capades, which encountered a great deal of poor weather. The public considers the Ice Follies superior to the Ice Capades, and now that there is a shortage of money due to the high cost of living ice carnival lovers now pick the show that appears most attractive.

Hazel Franklin, a graduate of the Silver Skates Derby, and Evelyn Chandler will once more be the chief stars of the Ice Follies. Miss Franklin is today the world's outstanding girl professional figure skater. Next season she is likely to have a rival in the person of Barbara Ann Scott, 19-year-old Canadian girl figure skating champion.

Walter Brown and Eddie Shipstad are negotiating for Miss Scott's appearance in either the Ice Capades or the Ice Follies. The Olympic champion is in a position to get $50,000 a year for her services in either of these shows.

Miss Scott Unable to Show in Boston Carnival

AN EFFORT was made to get Miss Scott to appear in the ice carnival of The Skating Club of Boston which will be held at the Arena this year. Miss Scott had to pass up this offer as she had previously agreed to appear in a conflicting Canadian carnival.

The residents of small Canadian towns raised a fund to send Miss Scott's parents to the Olympic games, and the new champion feels her first obligation is to these people. Later she hopes to appear in Boston.

The Skating Club of Boston will be able to accommodate 7200 persons at the Arena. Its carnivals have usually been of the best, and it is expected that this year's show will also be a good one.

It was at a carnival staged by The Skating Club of Boston at the Arena that Sonja Henie made her first American appearance. Sonja was originally carded for two shows, but she proved such a tremendous drawing card that the carnival was held over for a third night.

Sam Silverman Looks for Capacity Crowd

THE ICE FOLLIES is not the only show that is coming to Boston that has a big advance sale. Sam Silverman called me on the telephone to state that there is a record advance sale for the 10-round bout between Al (Red) Priest of Cambridge and Charley Fusari of New Jersey at the Garden on Monday night. The receipts are expected to top $40,000. Priest and Fusari will each receive 27 1/2 per cent of the gate.

While Fusari is likely to go to the post a favorite, Johnny Buckley believes Priest will win.

The rival boxers are both reported as being in good condition. Each will make 154 pounds for the match.

Greyhound Owners
Face Florida Ban

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Greyhound owners have been ordered to produce dogs for racing at Florida's eight tracks by 6 p. m. Monday, Feb. 16, or to be barred from the tracks.

The State Racing Commission issued an ultimatum to members of the Greyhound Owners Benevolent Ass'n late yesterday during an executive session attended by eight track representatives, eight members of GOBA and the commission.

Called together in an effort to restore racing, which has been halted since Saturday when owners refused to produce dogs until tracks gave them full recognition, the meeting ended in a stalemate.

TANGLES WITH JOE LOUIS ON FRIDAY 13TH

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS)—Friday the 13th may be just another day to some people, but a man who identified himself as Tom Delaney will remember today as the day he chose to tangle with Joe Louis.

Louis was about to leave the Club Ebony when Delaney intercepted him at the hat check counter early this morning.

"Hey, lug, it's too early to go home," Delaney told the world heavyweight champion.

Louis, as soft spoken as he is, tried to soothe the heckler. When words failed to discourage Delaney, Louis showed him about the wall and left.

"That guy can't punch me around," Delaney announced as he walked to the phone booth and called police.

A plainclothesman who an-sured the summons took Delaney to a police station, where Lt. James Glatnik took up where Louis left off in trying to assuage the night club patron's feelings.

When the lieutenant told him the man he argued with was Louis, Delaney exclaimed:

"Joe Louis? I didn't recognize him. This is Friday the 13th, so you'd better look me up and keep me out of any more trouble."

"FEELS BETTER, WIN"—Milt Schmidt undergoes diathermy treatment from trainer Win Green. His knee was injured again Feb. 1, by Murph Chamberlain of Canadiens, and Schmidt has just tried skating again. Bruins play Rangers here Saturday and Detroit Sunday but Schmidt won't be able to play.

Records Prove Home Teams No Longer Cinch Bet in NHL

By BILL GRIMES

For many years the professional gamblers who invariably made the home teams odds-on favorites in all National Hockey League games had a soft touch.

They were not prompted by civic pride by rating the home club 10 to 4 to win, even when it was factual that their choice had been beaten by the same team regularly in road games.

Unless these "bookies" have changed their policy they have not packed as many winners this year.

Although the hockey public may not be aware of the fact, the officiating in the NHL has improved to such an extent that the home clubs no longer receive all of the "breaks." The fans are still "homeys," but for the most part the judges of play call them as they see them and let the chips fall where they may. And, by virtue of this transformation the NHL and the fans are the winners. To prove this contention, let's go back five years and see how the NHL teams fared at home and on the road.

During the 1942-43 season, the NHL teams played a 150-game schedule. According to official records, 84 games were won by the home teams as against 31 victories for the visiting clubs. The remaining 32 games were ties. For the boys who like to figure percentages, that's 71 to 29, a very healthy margin for the "bookies" to work on.

Now, let's see what the NHL teams have done this season in only 134 games. The home teams have turned in a total of 59 victories and have split the point in 27 other games. So, on no less than 48 occasions, the visiting clubs have crossed up with "wise money." Whereas five years ago, the home teams won 71 per cent of their games, this season they've had to struggle to take the decisions in 55 per cent.

Chicago	12	10	12	26	34	104

The Maple Leafs and the Red Wings are the only clubs in the league which aren't giving the short end boys a rough time. The Leafs have lost only two games on home ice, and the Wings have won 13, lost 9 and tied four games in 11 at Olympia.

The Wings have picked up more points (29) on the road than any club and the only club which has won less points at home than away (15-18) is Chicago.

It was common, but uncomplimentary, gossip for years that the home clubs always won in NHL competition. Due to the fact that in the old days the officials were swayed by the reactions of the fans, it was an outstanding feat for the visiting clubs to get the breaks.

But today, the league stands behind the decisions of the officials, exception in rare cases. As a result, the cash customers have far more faith in the integrity of the NHL, which now makes the gamblers take a gamble.

Columbia Retains Unbeaten Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS) — Columbia still led the Ivy League and maintained its unbeaten record today—but it was a close squeak with Penn, 52 to 50.

Penn led at half-time, 28 to 26, and ran off to a 32 to 26 lead soon thereafter, only to be overhauled in the closing minutes.

NAMED FARM DIRECTOR
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (AP)—Cy Morgan, veteran Philadelphia Phillies scout, was named field director of the Philadelphia Phillies' farm system in a series of changes in the organization.

FUSARI COMES HERE TO END TRAINING FOR PRIEST BOUT

Charlie Fusari, New Jersey, welterweight, will arrive in Boston tomorrow morning and plans to wind up his training here for his 10-round bout with Al

"Red" Priest at Boston Garden Monday night.

The fact that Jackie Wilson, classy Quincy 142 pounder, will be on the card has added more zeal to the affair. Jackie, one of the best amateurs ever graduated to pros in New England, has won five straight fights. He is piloted by George Freeman.

Harvard Swimmers Face Acid Test at Dartmouth

Harvard's undefeated swimming team faces its acid test this afternoon when it invades the charged atmosphere of Dartmouth's spotlighted Winter Carnival to compete with the Green.

"That carnival will make a lot of difference," says Crimson men's coach Hal Uler. "They'll be up for us, but at the same time our boys know that this meet is the real sign of whether we can go through the season undefeated."

Dartmouth is tough. In six meets to date, they have lost only to Yale, knocking off Brown, Colgate, Bowdoin, RPI, and Cornell. In addition they have the advantage of swimming in their own pool.

Their two strong points are the breaststroke and backstroke. Cap-tainly Urstadt and Chuck Soldberg, the two aces of the Green aggregation, have the unusual distinction of being co-holders of the Dartmouth pool record in the four event. If the Crimson can snout a win in either of these, the medley relay, which combines breast, back and freestyle they should be in.

Recreational Skiers Flock To Jericho, Locke's Hills

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Recreational skiers—without racing classifications—will have ample opportunity to sharpen their Christies this week-end at either Jericho Hill, Marlboro; or Locke's

Hill, Amesbury, where the Jericho and Snowflakes Ski clubs, respectively, will hold winter carnivals, featuring events for skiers of all skills.

The Jericho ski-fest is set for tomorrow, continuing into the evening. Boys and girls from 6 to 18 years old, divided into classes, will compete during the morning and afternoon; while men and women may hop around on their hickories under the floeights.

A carnival queen will be selected from racing contestants... Courses will be set by Doug Dyer, Norman Williams, and Bob McDaniels.

At Amesbury, juniors under 16 will race in downhill and slalom contests tomorrow afternoon, with the Sabbath reserved for those of all ages... A portable jumping platform may also be set on the slope... Several trophies and prizes will be awarded, and a queen will be chosen at a ball in the town hall, Saturday evening.

The 38th annual Dartmouth Winter Carnival ski meet is on the program at Hanover, N. H., today and tomorrow, the Big Green skiers hoping to retain the Carnival Cup. Middlebury, which has its best schuss squad in years, is favored to capture top honors, but keen competition will come from the University of New Hampshire, McGill, of Montreal; Vermont, Maine, St. Lawrence, Williams, Harvard and Amherst... Thousands of students and their girl-friends will be on hand, many even watching the ski events.

QUICK CHRISTIES: At Big Bromley, Manchester, Vt., New York's Amateur Ski Club will stage its annual Father and Son races tomorrow. The 14th running of the Fiske Trophy slalom will take place on steep Suicide Six, Woodstock, Vt., Sunday... Best bet for spectators is the Brattleboro, Vt., Outing Club's annual Winged Trophy jumping meet, which starts at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, offering the public the chance to view 110 of America's, Norway's, and Canada's most expert exponents of the ancient art. The New England Interscholastic Ski Championships will be held today and tomorrow, at Bethel.

LA MOTTA SUSPENDED 7 MOS. FINED $1000

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission today suspended Boxer Jake LaMotta until June 21 and fined him $1000 for having concealed facts of his physical condition before he was stopped by Billy Fox of Philadelphia on Nov. 14 at Madison Square Garden.

Philly Heavy Operated on For Brain Clot

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (AP)—Eddie Franklin, 23-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight, was operated on today for removal of a clot on the brain—the result of a punch to the head in an eight-round fight.

Franklin was reported in serious condition at Temple University Hospital. He was knocked down three times in the eighth round last night by Bill (Chicken) Thompson, who won a unanimous decision.

Referee Charley Daggett said he didn't stop the bout because there was an evidence that Franklin had suffered an injury.

"Besides," the referee said, "the three official scores show that Franklin needed only to win the last round to earn a draw, and could have gained the decision if he had floored Thompson before he was dropped himself."

Slugged Referee Reported on Mend

HACKENSACK, N. J., Feb. 13 (AP)—Al Brown, high school basketball referee who suffered a brain concussion in an attack which police blamed on the irate father of a schoolboy athlete, was reported in satisfactory condition today at the Hackensack hospital.

Brown was thrown to the floor during a game between Long Branch and Morristown high schools Tuesday night after calling four personal fouls against a Long Branch player, Joseph O'Leary, in the first period.

Police arrested the boy's father, Barrett O'Leary, Sr., 45, for the attack. He was freed in $500 bail pending a hearing Feb. 21 on a charge of atrocious assault and battery.

Two Games Cancelled One to Conserve Fuel

MILFORD, Ct., Feb. 13 (AP)—Arnold College announced today cancellation of two basketball games, one of them to conserve fuel.

Cancelled were today's schedule game with Iona of New Rochelle, N. Y., and tomorrow's game with Brown.

The Brown game was called off because of the fuel conservation program at the East Haven High School where the game was to have been played.

Docusen Rated 9-5 Over Burton Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS)—Gene Burton, Harlem, N. Y., Negro, and Bernard Docusen, of New Orleans, headline tonight at Madison Square Garden in the feature of three 10-round bouts.

Docusen is a surprising 9 to 5 favorite despite a loss to Burton last December. The battle is expected to produce an opponent for Lightweight Champion Ike Williams or for Ray Robinson, welterweight titleholder.

Lamotta has been under "temporary suspension" ever since Nov. 21, when he admitted to the commission that he went into the Fox fight with an injured side and against the advice of his physician. The bout was halted in the fourth round after Lamotta had taken a fierce beating from the Philadelphia Negro.

Col. Eddie Egan, chairman of the commission, said today that final disposition of Lamotta's case had been held up pending the outcome of an investigation of the fight by the New York grand jury. The grand jury, he said, had uncovered no additional facts, so it now was possible to close the case.

In announcing the fine and setting a limit to Lamotta's suspension, Egan accused the Bronx mauler of conduct detrimental to boxing and said his failure to disclose that he had been injured was a "fraud upon the public."

Lamotta's purse, as well as that of Fox, originally was held up, but both fighters recently received their checks from the 20th Century Sporting Club.

The grand jury investigated the fight after it had been widely reported that bookmakers ceased taking bets on the bout several hours before the two fighters entered the ring.

Harvard's Houston To Be Wed Tomorrow

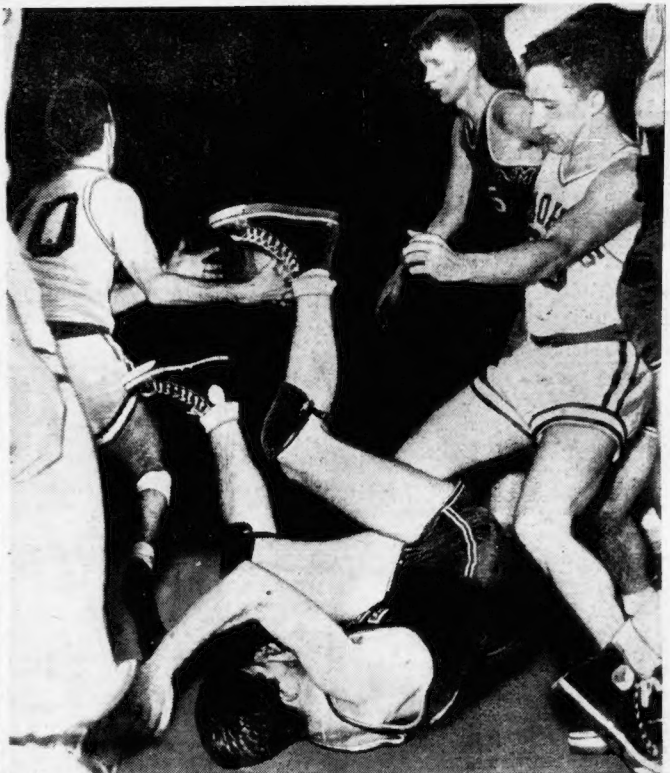

St. Valentine's Day is the time. Hyannis' place and pretty Carol Marguerite Baldwin the girl for Harvard footballer Howard Houston, who will be married tomorrow at the Hyannis Federated Church. The bride-to-be, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Baldwin of Harwich, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and is presently working as a physio-therapist.

Houston, an All-Ivy League tackle last fall, was graduated from Haverhill High School and later served for three years with the Army Air Corps.

'Got a Nice Raise,' Says Berra on Signing

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13 (INS)—Yogi Berra, catcher-outfielder of the New York Yankees, said today he has signed his 1948 contract.

"I got a nice raise," Berra said. "I'm going to leave Feb. 26 for the Yankee spring training camp in Florida."

Ram Goes Bam—Bob Mulvihill, Fordham guard, loses (but definitely) his footing in basketball game against St. John's in New York. Ed Redding of St. John's tries to keep his balance as a teammate, Jim Weston (10), makes off with the ball. Rams upset St. John's, 51 to 44.

Dick Button Wins For Grand Slam

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 13 (INS)—Dick Button, 18-year-old figure skating wizard from Englewood, N. J., completed a grand slam by winning the men's world championship today, and Barbara Ann Scott, of Canada, took a lead for the women's crown.

After trailing in yesterday's compulsory figures, Button won today's free figures with enough points to spare to dethrone Hans Gerschwiler, of Switzerland. Miss Scott, holder of all major women's titles, began defense of the world crown by taking an unofficial lead on the first two of six compulsory figures. The remaining four will be held tomorrow and the women's free figures on Sunday.

The triumph gave Button a stranglehold on world honors. He held the North American and United States titles when he recently dethroned Gerschwiler as European champion and followed by winning the Olympic crown over the Swiss.

Polly Riley, Peggy Kirk Gain Palm Beach Final

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Polly Riley of Ft. Worth, Tex., and Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O., today won their way into the finals of the women's golf championship of Palm Beach.

Miss Riley, who won medal honors with a 74 over the 60th-yard golf club course, ousted Carol Daringer of Tiffin, O., 4 and 3. Miss Kirk eliminated Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich., 6 and 5.
